SOVIET SENDS BIG AIR FLEET EAST

Japanese Report Arrival At Khabarovsk

CZECHO-SLOVAK ISSUE LIKELY TO WARM UP

Prague, To-day.

Events in Czecho-Slovakia are likely to warm up in the next few days as it is understood that the Government's Minorities Statute, now completed, is to be submitted to Parliament next week.

The full details are undisclosed but according to a usually well-informed newspaper, they provide a form of self-government for the various nationalities in the National Diets, which have a large measure of autonomy in the local administration.

The Sudetens, however, do not indicate any satisfaction in the trend of events and their headquarters has published the text of the memorandum handed the Government on June 7, demanding that all the local and national administrations should be entitled to insist on the application of any measures that have been voted for the second time, despite the adverse decision of the President or the National Assembly. —Reuter.

LOCAL SHOWERS

The Royal Observatory reports that an area of moderately high pressure covers S. China and Japan, pressure being highest to the south of Korea. The depression to the east of Luzon appears to be stationary. The depression over Indo-China has decreased slightly in intensity. Forecast:—East winds, moderate; fair generally, some local showers.

FORTHCOMING WEDDING

The forthcoming marriage between Mr. Walter Joseph Citrin, of No. 1 Balfour Lyttleton Road, Hong Kong, and Miss Judith Zirinsky, medical student of No. 221B, Grosvenor Gardens, Shanghai, has been announced.

Tension Grows Along Manchukuo Border

Tokyo, To-day.

Tension has been considerably increased on the Manchukuo-Soviet Border by news of the despatch by the Soviet authorities of 250 bombers and pursuit planes to Khabarovsk, according to a Japanese news report this morning.

It is stated that the Commander of the Central Ural Air Force is in charge of this fleet of aircraft having flown to Khabarovsk himself to take command in this area.

Report also allege that the Soviets have 700,000 troops along the Manchukuo border, while the Manchukuo authorities have also increased their troops in the region.

Soviet troops are still in occupation of the hills at Hungchun, which the Japanese claim to be Manchukuo territory. The troops who crossed into "Manchukuo territory" in the neighbourhood of the Hanka Lake have also not withdrawn, according to the latest messages reaching here.

An important conference is alleged to have been called by Stalin to meet this morning at which it is reported high military officials will be present. The main object of the conference, Japanese reports state, was to discuss the border "incident."—Our Own Correspondent.

JAPANESE BOMBERS DROP LEAFLETS OVER CANTON

(From Our Staff Representative)

Canton, To-day.

Three Japanese planes have just (2.15 p.m.) passed over Canton, one of them passing right overhead of the Victoria Hotel, Sha-meen.

They were greeted with unusually heavy anti-aircraft fire, which burst all about them without scoring a hit.

No bombs were dropped, but significantly the planes showered the outskirts of the city with leaflets.

It is feared that the leaflets are a warning of a severe bombing impending, as this has been the experience of coastal ports recently. —Our Own Correspondent.

CHOLERA

Eight further cases of cholera, six in Victoria, one in Kowloon and one from the harbour, were reported to the Medical Department in the 24 hours ended at midnight.

A Bride's Home

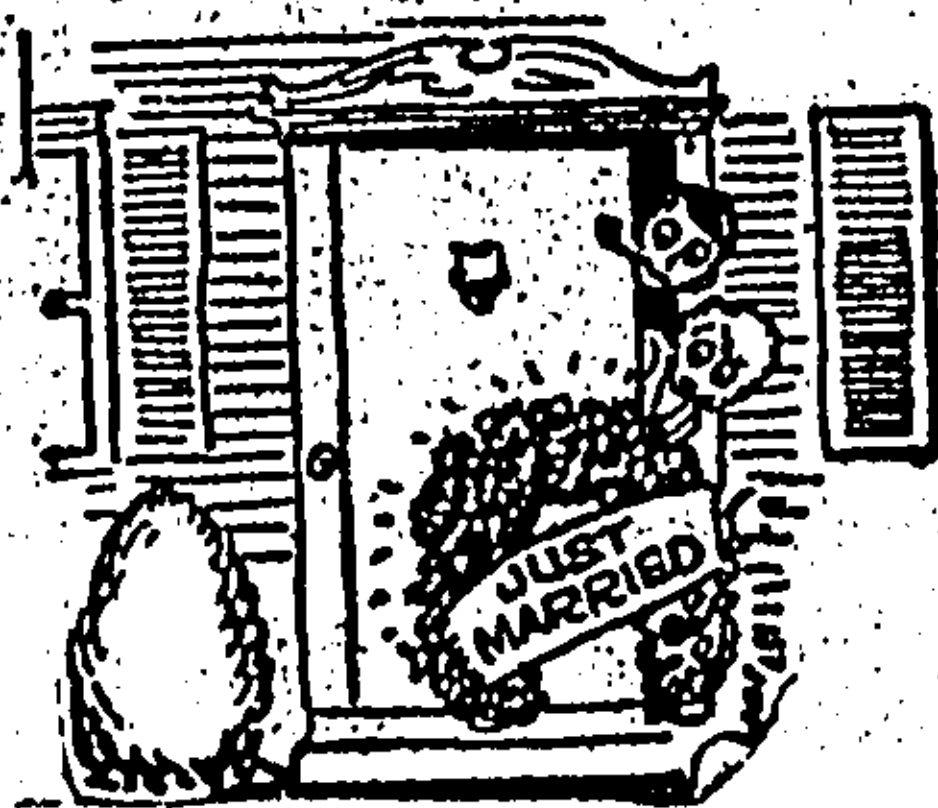

(By ELIZABETH MACRAE BOYKIN)

Pine and periwinkle—who'd have thought of it! But that's what Andrea, our brand new bride neighbour, has in her brand new living room. And we found it a perfectly charming combination when we saw it on our first call.

IN A HONEY TONE

The walls are panelled in quite ordinary pine siding but they've been rubbed to a nice honey tone. The ceiling is painted in a light periwinkle blue and she's been lucky enough to find a figured chintz with a periwinkle ground . . . the pattern has some soft apricot toned flowers in it. This room has lots of windows so it's bright and cheerful for all these subtle tones. The curtains are ruffled net and across one wide window Andrea has glass shelves to hold a collection of amethyst coloured glass. The rug here is as near the honey colour of the pine as Andrea could get; the furniture is walnut in a rather light finish and the sofa has a plain apricot toned covering. Two chairs are slip covered in the periwinkle flowered chintz and a third easy chair is in a stripe that repeats the grey-blue and apricot tones.

CHINTZ ON THE WALLS

The dining room adjoining has a pine dado, then above that, periwinkle Chintz on the walls with a cream ceiling. And again one window has glass shelves to hold amethyst glass. The carpet here is apricot colour and the chair seats are beige.

Peach is the prevailing tone in Andrea's bedroom, with a carpet in a delicious periwinkle or delphinium blue. The curtains are peach taffeta with the ruffles edged in periwinkle ribbon. Blond furniture

This sun suit is in pure wool, worked in an attractive stitch of fancy squares, with straps to tie at natural waist line.

"Being able to change your mind," says soliloquizing Elizabeth, "merely proves that you can be just as wrong the second time as you were the first."

... a bedspread in cream taffeta with an applied bouquet in pastel colours . . . chairs in flowered chintz . . . and there you have an effect that's very bride-y indeed. The guest room has an apricot rug, mahogany furniture with spread, curtains and chairs in flowered chintz on a soft blue ground.

What To-day Means To You

(By MARY BLAKE)

If July 20 is your birthday, the best hours for you on this date are from 8.45 to 10.45 a.m., from 2.45 to 4.45 p.m., and from 7.45 to 9.45 p.m. The danger periods are from 6.45 to 8.45 a.m., from 5.45 to 7.45 p.m., and from 9.45 to 11.45 p.m.

Physically you ought to feel fine this day. Vital powers will be stimulated, as a rule, through prevailing favourable influences, and life as a whole ought to be thoroughly enjoyable. The castle-builder will conceive, through some mental image, a logical starting point on which to build something of a very practical nature. Farsightedness on the part of a business man or woman, is apt to save them many a dollar this day. Keep a sharp watch for OPPORTUNITY and your reward will be greater than your expectations. You more than likely will find a remedy for most of your troubles this day, if you are optimistic. Married and engaged couples, as well as those who are in love, must not let unpleasant doubt cast a shadow over their day.

If a woman and July 20 is your birthday, depend on your own common sense for guidance, you will probably seldom go wrong. Your home may reflect your personality, so let it radiate contentment and happiness, which is a mental state you can develop. Take an interest in social affairs because it will pay you to do so. Deal in facts, not theories. Be careful not to mistake the efforts of friends and relatives to be helpful, as a desire on their part to be supercritical. You ought to have the qualifications required to be a versatile entertainer, teacher, trained nurse, actress, lecturer or business woman. If love and common sense are the foundation upon which your matrimonial life is built, happiness can be the only result.

Witty Kitty

The mentally great girl friend thinks when her boy friend waxes poetic about downy covers, he's complimenting her on her new marabou bolero.

TONGUE SALAD

3 cups cold tongue, diced.
1/2 cup cooked carrots, diced.
1/2 cup chopped celery.
6 tablespoons chopped green pepper.
1/4 teaspoon paprika.
French dressing.
Mix the tongue, carrots, celery and green pepper. Add paprika and marinate in a French dressing. Chill thoroughly. Arrange in nests of crisp lettuce leaves and garnish with parsley. Serve with mayonnaise dressing.—Edith M. Barber.

The child born on July 20, usually reflects the best traits in its parents. In its early teens an exceptionally strong personality is generally strength of character to help face life fearlessly, as well as successfully.

If a man and July 20 is your natal day, you have probably the gift of inspiring confidence in everyone with whom you have business or social contacts. As a dentist, chemist, educator, actor, physician, engineer or sales promoter, you ought to be able to establish an enviable record.

SMALL holes in wood can be filled by melting down old candle-ends and brushing on whilst hot, so that the mixture runs into the holes. Paraffin wax can be used instead of candle-ends if preferred.

To clean the inside of cut glass vases or decanters mix a small quantity of vinegar with a handful of salt; put a little in each decanter or vase and shake well. Afterward rinse well in clear water.

Do not iron pongee while damp as this will either spot or stiffen the silk. Allow the pongee to dry; press on the wrong side and it will look like new.

SCENES OF WILD ENTHUSIASM IN PARIS

LONDON, TO-DAY.

REPORTS FROM FRANCE DESCRIBE, THE SCENES OF WILD ENTHUSIASM WHICH GREETED THE KING AND QUEEN ON THEIR ARRIVAL AT BOULOGNE AND SUBSEQUENTLY IN PARIS AT THE BEGINNING OF THE THREE DAYS' STATE VISIT WHICH THEIR MAJESTIES ARE PAYING TO THE FRENCH REPUBLIC AND MADAME LEBRUN.

The Majesties and their suites embarked from the yacht "Enchantress" at 12.42 p.m., after watching the unveiling of the Britannia Memorial—commemorating the landing of the British Expeditionary Force in 1914—from the bridge as the yacht steamed into the harbour.

They were greeted at the quay-side by the French Foreign Minister with the Admiral Commanding the Port of Boulogne and the British Ambassador in Paris, Sir Eric Phipps.

The Guard of Honour of the first Regiment of the Infantry of Picardy, the oldest regiment of foot soldiers in the French Army, was drawn up on the quay-side. They presented arms and the band played the British National Anthem.

Their train arrived at the Bois De Boulogne station at 4.48 p.m. and their Majesties were greeted by the President of the Republic and his wife, behind whom were the Presidents of the Senate and the Chamber and the French Prime Minister.

SYMBOL OF PEACE

His Majesty was still wearing the blue and gold full dress uniform of Admiral of the Fleet, conspicuous on which was the ribbon of the Grand Cordon of the Legion of Honour.

After the presentations of the President and the Royal Guests they emerged into the sunshine outside the station and simultaneously an enormous Union Jack and the French Tricolour of similar dimensions, were broken at the mast heads of the two 60 foot masts, while 10,000 pigeons, released as a symbol of peace, flew up into the azure blue of a summer sky, with the brilliant sunshine flashing on their wings.

As the procession moved off down Avenue Foch, vast crowds broke into roar after roar of cheering. The Cars were escorted by a Squadron of Mounted Spahis, in picturesque uniforms followed by mounted civil guards.

CADETS PARADE

At Rount Pont Des Champs Elysees the Cadets of Saint Cyr and Ecole Polytechnique were on guard in full dress uniform and presented arms.

The enthusiasm of the crowds continued as the procession moved on to the Place de la Concorde and towards the Quai D'Orsay. After the passage of the first two cars, in which rode the President and the King and Madame Lebrun and the Queen, special cheers greeted the fifth car in which the Foreign Secretary, Lord Halifax rode, beside the French Premier, M. Daladier.—British Wireless

The "Ranpura" left Shanghai yesterday and is due here on Friday at about 6 a.m.

NAMOA ISLAND UNDER HEAVY BOMBARDMENT

Swatow, To-day.

About 15 Japanese gunboats cruised off Namoa Island yesterday morning and subjected the Chinese positions to a long and heavy bombardment.

Chinese artillery and field guns kept silent and no damage is reported to have been suffered by the Chinese, who are increasing their forces on the Island and hastily reconstructing the defences.

Japanese planes flew over a large area around Swatow dropping bombs at several points.

Later in the afternoon the vessels resumed the bombardment and attempted to land a party of blue-jackets in motor-launches, which, however, failed to reach the shores owing to the fierce fire with which they were met.

Late last night the sound of firing was still audible in Swatow, and it is believed that the Japanese are attempting to occupy the Island again.—Our Own Correspondent.

PROTECTION OF BRITISH SHIPPING FROM AIR ATTACKS IN FAR EAST

London, To-day.

In the House of Commons Mr. G. Le M. Mander, (Liberal, Wolverhampton) asked what steps are being taken to protect British and the Dominions' shipping in the Far East from deliberate attacks by aircraft?

Mr. R. A. Butler said that the Government had not found it necessary since December to take any special steps. There had not been any subsequent attacks on British shipping in China.

If, as he trusted would not be the case, any further attack did occur, His Majesty's ships would take such action as practicable.

The position was at present that British shipping should communicate with the Japanese authorities when any precautions appeared desirable.

Mr. Mander then asked if the position in the Far East was precisely the same as that in Spain?

Mr. Butler replied, "No; because in the Far East British warships have certain Treaty rights in China's ports and territorial waters."—Reuter.

JAPANESE NAVAL ACTION IN TSINGTAO

The following information has been received from a local firm:

"Upon ordering supplies of Alca Mineral Water from the Laoshan Iltis Mineral Water Factory, which is owned by Melchers and Co., Shanghai, it was stated that the Japanese naval authorities in Tsingtao, where the factory is situated, had declined to issue a permit for the export to Hong Kong.

Since export from Japan to Hong Kong of other goods has been prohibited under the pretext that the same might be used by the Chinese Military Authorities for military purposes, it is feared that also Mineral Water will now fall under this clause.

Alca Water has actually been shipped for years from Tsingtao to Hong Kong for local consumption, and the difficulties raised by the Japanese Authorities at Tsingtao appear rather farfetched.

It is furthermore feared that the present action indicates that the Japanese authorities are endeavouring to stop foreign trade in the Far East, and that certain over-eager officials are not paying any consideration to foreign-owned factories.

King's Speech At State Banquet In Paris

Common Goal, In Quest Of Human Well-Being

Paris, To-day.

In the world's present state of moral unrest, great obligations lie on the nations which are still interested in human progress, declared President Lebrun last night in his speech of welcome to King George and Queen Elizabeth, at the Elysee Palace.

President Lebrun's speech expressed the sincere joy of France in greeting the Sovereigns of a Nation, their friend and expressed their sorrow at the circumstances which led to the postponement of their journey.

Born of long tradition and confirmed by constant contact, their thoughts and efforts consecrated by the hardest of trials which had inspired the same ideals of liberty, the peace and friendship which unites the two countries, has acquired, he said, in the course of development, the strength which alone can be given by the same conception of human values and equal concern to face the different problems of national and international life in a generous spirit of understanding.

THE ENTENTE

"The Franco-British entente, founded by your illustrious grandfather, gave under the glorious reign of George V a measure of its efficacy during the dark period of the World War.

"The maintenance of peace within the limits of international law permits neither an invitation regarding the task to be accomplished nor a falling off in a daily effort.

"It is towards this that all our thoughts should be most firmly directed."

KING'S REPLY

The King, speaking in French, said that he was deeply touched by the welcome and declared that it would be impossible to recall a period when Anglo-French relations were more intimate. They were inspired by the same ideal, had the same attachment to democratic principles and the same beliefs of the benefits of individual liberty.

"We are proud of this political faith which we share with other great nations but we fully realise that it carries with it, heavy responsibilities, and, in the period in which we live, it demands from us all to a high degree, the noble qualities of courage, wisdom and determination."

HUMAN WELLBEING

The King emphasised that Anglo-French friendship was directed against no other power, on the other hands their governments ardently desired to find by means of international agreements, a solution of the political problems threatening the peace of the world, and economic difficulties restricting human wellbeing.

The action of their Governments was thus directed towards a common goal, assuring happiness to the peoples of the world by means of true co-operation and, he concluded, he was deeply touched by President Lebrun's wishes for the greatness and prosperity of Britain and her overseas dominions.

The King then toasted the honour and glory of France.—Reuter.

Perpignan, To-day.

Reports received here on Tuesday morning from Madrid, Valencia and Barcelona state that the entry into the Third Year of the Civil War was commemorated in Republican Spain by demonstrations where the speakers sharply condemned any spirit of defeatism.

The streets of the cities were decorated with posters showing pictures of La Passionaria Negrin and Azana and calling for continuation of the struggle.

A new paper entitled "The Popular Front" was published at Valencia, which in their first number, points to the very serious situation of Republican Spain and demands support of the fight by all.—Trans-Ocean.

ENGLAND PLUS FRANCE EQUALS PEACE

Paris, To-day.

The occasion of the Royal visit to Paris is utilized by the prominent commentator on foreign affairs, Jules Sauerwein, for an article entitled "England plus France equals peace."

The two powers he declares, must give such an impressive demonstration of power that not even the most daring will think of opposition to it. It is only in this manner that the revolutionary aspirations which are growing in certain dictatorial bosoms can be discouraged.

"It is no longer necessary to emphasise," he goes on to state, "that in the case of an emergency the two countries would take the field, side by side, and within the past two months Germany has clearly seen that in the event of a brutal and provocative attempt to upset the status they would not hesitate in taking action."

"Germany must be convinced of the fact," declares the writer,

LORD HALIFAX'S PARIS CONVERSATION

Paris, To-day.

In the course of the Royal visit to Paris, conversations will take place between the British Foreign Minister, Lord Halifax and the French Foreign Minister about outstanding current questions, above all regarding the situation in Czechoslovakia.

It is known that the British and French views diverge on certain questions of policy.

Doubtless M. Bonnet will urge that France and England must adopt an united stand regarding European questions, and to take all steps required to assure maintenance of the integrity of the Czechoslovak Republic.

It is not expected that Lord Halifax will enter into an agreement to bind England too closely.—Trans-Ocean.

Inspector Mair said that the earring was a metal one but that defendant had mistaken it for a gold one.

"that France and England will develop their potential strength as desired and counterattack with all means at their disposal.—Trans-Ocean.

THE DAILY SHORT STORY

Five Hours Dead

Obadiah Little was dead. There were plenty who would be glad to hear that news. There were a great majority of others who didn't care a rap.

Obadiah was a mean old man who lived alone on a farm ten miles west of Fairview. Everyone hated him because he drove a sharp bargain and foreclosed mortgages on the minute and was considered one of the wealthiest men in the state.

That was the situation that confronted Owen and me when we drove up to investigate. It looked like one of those long drawn-out affairs that might not end anywhere. Worse, folks around the country-side didn't think kindly of us, it being our job to avenge, so to speak, the murder of a man who needed murdering.

Preliminary investigation revealed the following facts: Obadiah had been killed by a rock thrown through a window near which he was sitting, reading. We knew he had been sitting there reading because Moses Morris, a neighbour, had passed by in the early evening and noticed the light in Obadiah's window, and noticed Obadiah sitting beside it. Moses

"Some blunt instrument."

"The rock eh?"

"Could have been."

Just then Owen came in. He had a tall, rawboned individual with him.

"This is Roscoe," he said.

Roscoe looked scared. He'd apparently been drinking, but being arrested sobered him up.

"Sit down, Roscoe," I said. "If you're innocent there's nothing to worry about. Owen, step outside and collar Moses Morris again."

Owen went out. Roscoe tried to look indifferent, and succeeded in acting like an overgrown school boy.

"Forget it, Roscoe," I said. "You've got nothing to worry about."

He grinned, and there was relief in his eyes.

Owen came in with Moses. Moses looked important. Apparently he'd been gaining a little recognition from the neighbours.

"Moses," I said, "you're a first class liar. You murdered Obadiah!"

Moses' jaw went slack. Owen looked uncertain, but kept his mouth shut.

Roscoe stared at Moses, as though he were seeing a ghost.

"How do you figure that, Shurrrff?"

By James Freeman

had gone up the road looking for a cow that had strayed. He found the cow and started back and noticed that Obadiah had shifted his position. Something about the way the old man looked aroused Moses' curiosity, and he went up close and saw blood on Obadiah's temple. Moses went on home and called the police.

We corroborated this by talking to neighbours who had heard Moses calling the cow, and by discovering footprints and hoof prints outside the window, and by the fact that Oscar Jones, another neighbour, had come by while Moses was looking in the window and could vouch for Moses' story.

So we discounted Moses as a possible suspect, and went to work on the others who had hated Obadiah. There was, for example, Roscoe Norbert, who lived a mile away, and who had been helping Obadiah with his haying. A neighbour had heard Obadiah and Roscoe quarrelling over wages that very day.

So we called at Roscoe's house, and struck a snag. Roscoe hadn't been home all night. That looked bad, or good, depending on what side of the fence you were on. I sent Owen to hunt up Roscoe, and returned to Obadiah's farm.

Quite a crowd had gathered outside. Lights from automobiles illuminated the house and grounds. Among the cars I noticed Doc Orion's little coupe.

He was inside, and had already begun his investigation.

"How's it look?" I asked him.

"Let you know in about an hour."

He glanced up and returned to his work. I scowled. Doc was usually more confident.

I began looking around the house. After about a half-hour I found a tobacco can filled with greenbacks stuffed in behind a chimney. Well, I thought, the motive wasn't robbery. Every one must have known he had money hidden around some place, and if they wanted to find it they'd have torn the place apart.

I went back into the bedroom. Doc was stuffing things back into his bag.

"Been dead about five hours," he said.

he asked, wetting his lips.

"Easy as pie," I said. "You started out after your cow and stopped by to talk to Obadiah—about renewing a mortgage, perhaps, or something else. Anyway, you got mad and slugged him with the stove poker

Then you propped him up by the window, lighted the lamp and put the book in his hand, figuring someone would see him sitting there and corroborate your story. Then you went outside and heaved a rock through the window. Later, when you came back with your cow you saw that Obadiah had stumped, and you went up to look, which is, when Oscar Jones came by." I resorted to the age old trick of jabbing

a finger under Moses' nose and saying: "You killed him, didn't you?"

And Moses nodded dumbly.

There was, of course, blood on the poker to prove that part of it, but it was what the doc said that gave me the real lead. Dead five hours. Well, five hours ago the sun was shining,

and a mean old man like Obadiah wouldn't burn off when the sun was out.

CHINESE AND JAPANESE AT GRIPS IN TERRIFIC HEAT

Desperate Fighting In Vicinity Of Lion Hill

Japanese Offensive Makes Little Or No Progress

Hankow, To-day.

Severe fighting is progressing along the south bank of the Yangtse near Lion Hill, where the Chinese are battling desperately in the terrific heat to halt the Japanese advance.

Despite the support of more than 20 gunboats which poured a steady stream of lead into the Chinese lines, it is claimed that the Japanese have failed to make much progress during the past 24 hours.

According to a Chinese military communique, a flotilla of 46 Japanese warships, accompanied by over 10 motor launches, dropped anchor at Yanchiawan, at the neck of Poyang Lake, with the intention of landing men on the north bank of the Yangtse, but the Chinese shore batteries opened up with such intensive fire that the war ships were forced to retire without accomplishing their purpose. — Reuter.

STALEMATE ON YANGTZE

Kiukiang, To-day.

The situation on the Yangtze and Poyang Lake front has developed into a stalemate.

With the Chinese staging daily air raids on warships in the Yangtze and putting up stubborn resistance on land the Japanese have not been able to make any headway in the last couple of days.

Chinese attacks at Hukou, Pengtseh and Matang meanwhile have cut Japanese communications between these three points.

Conducting routine bombing of the Japanese warships, a squadron of Chinese planes damaged two more enemy vessels yesterday morning.

No Japanese aircraft rose to challenge them. They returned safely to their base.

Seven Japanese warships steamed upriver to shell Sinkang below Kiukiang. Chinese land batteries damaged one of them. Japanese steam launches cruising at the mouth of Poyang Lake were driven back by intensive Chinese fire. — Central News.

ANHWEI CITIES RECAPTURED

Chengchow, To-day.

As a result of fierce Chinese counter-attacks Kwoyang, Mengcheng, Fengyang and Shouhsien in north Anhwei have been recaptured, military reports reveal.

The Japanese garrisons suffered heavy losses during the fighting. — Central News.

300 BOMBS DROPPED AROUND KIUKIANG

Kiukiang, To-day.

At least 300 bombs were dropped by Japanese airmen over a wide area around Kiukiang in one of the severest air raids over northern Kiukiang yesterday.

Commencing at 8 o'clock in the morning, two Japanese raiders bombed a point west of Sinkang.

At 11 o'clock, Chowkiamen, to the east of Kiukiang, was raided by a squadron of Japanese aircraft which released about 60 missiles.

Four machines dropped 20 missiles at Taomeishan, to the southwest of Sinkang, at 2 o'clock in the afternoon. Later, they flew over Siao-chiapan, west of Sinkang, and unloaded 60 more missiles. Rows of houses were blown up.

Peilipu, southeast of Kiukiang, and Moutashan, near Sinkang, were also bombed in the afternoon. — Central News.

The s.s. "Potsdam" is expected to arrive on Sunday, at 6.00 a.m. She will berth alongside Kowloon Wharf, and will leave here for Europe via Manila, Singapore and ports at 10.00 p.m.

CORRIGAN'S LICENCE CANCELLED

Washington, To-day.

The Air Commerce Bureau has cancelled the licence of Mr. Douglas Corrigan's plane. This move prevents Corrigan, who made the sensational "Atlantic" "accident" flight, from leaving Dublin by air in his own machine. — Reuter.

JAPANESE GOLD FOR EXPORT

Tokyo, To-day.

A monetary stabilization fund of 300 million yen has been created in Japan, the Minister of Finance having made an official announcement to this effect yesterday. The fund is to be made up of gold as it arrives from the Bank of Japan and will be used for purpose of bringing about equilibrium between imports and exports, the latter having dropped far below normal levels in during past months. — Trans-Ocean.

TREASURY RETURNS

London, To-day.

The Exchequer returns show that total ordinary revenue amounts to $164,568,998, as compared with $175,161,684 at the corresponding date last year.

Total expenditure, less self-balancing items, is $280,609,838, as compared with $249,755,955 at the corresponding date of 1937.

The total Floating Debt outstanding is $911,055,000 — a net increase of $69,300,000 since March 21st. — British Wireless.

Two coolies were burned when acid they were carrying splashed on them in Queen's Road West. They were admitted to the Queen Mary Hospital.

NEW PENSIONS FOR BLACK COATED WORKERS

London, To-day.

Nearly 295,000 applications have been received from persons wishing to become contributors under the Pensions Scheme for Black-Coated Workers which was brought into being by the passage of the Pensions Voluntary Contributions Act, last year.

Over 210,000 applicants have already been accepted.

A big increase in the volume of applications is expected towards the end of this year, as the period during which the specially advantageous terms are offered to the older applicants expires at beginning 1939.

It is estimated there are some 2,000,000 men and women, outside the scope of the existing widows and orphans and old age pensions scheme, who are qualified to insure for the pension under the new act. — British Wireless.

TOKYO REPEATS PROTEST

Tokyo, To-day.

The Foreign Minister, General Ugaki cabled yesterday to the Japanese Ambassador in Moscow to repeat the Japanese protest concerning the alleged violation of the Manchukuo Border by the Soviet. — Reuter.

Wong Shui-lam, 34, a coolie employed by the compradore of the Kowloon Godowns, was this morning fined $150 or three months at the Kowloon Police Court when he pleaded guilty to the theft of five cartons of Camel cigarettes, belonging to Mr. Craig, second officer of the s.s. "Hopecastle," yesterday.

MR. BUTLER'S MISINFORMATION

Mr. R. A. Butler makes us nearly as angry when he states in the House of Commons that his information appears to show that the objectives in the last severe bombing of Canton were military, and that civilian casualties would not bear a high proportion to the total, as do the Japanese when they are guilty of such outrageous terrorism as the real facts of last Thursday's bombing unquestionably reveal. The last part of Mr. Butler's statement is particularly provoking as no-one on the spot in Canton could possibly have informed him truthfully otherwise than that the casualties were 99.9 per cent. civilian, innocent victims of a brutal bombing. If his information was inadequate, the Under-Secretary had no justification for committing himself to such a statement. On Sunday, an equally savage raid occurred. Casualties were not so high, but this was not because the Japanese were more considerate or more accurate in their aim. Just as much destruction was done in the slum areas of Canton, but the residents had already made their way to places of comparative safety. In these circumstances, it seems to us that things are coming to a pretty pass when Mr. Butler cannot leave the Japanese to do their own white-washing, but on the basis of meagre details, tries to do it for them in the Houses of Parliament.

Only the man who would justify gassing a peasant on the ground that the rice he is growing may go to feed troops could possibly describe either the old power station in Canton or the Pearl River Bridge as military objectives. The bridge connects Canton with Honan and is of not the slightest military consequence. The only result of its destruction would be to add inconvenience to the lives of civilians in Canton going about their daily business. The same applies to the power station. Its wrecking would be a nuisance to Canton as an industrial city, a good deal of annoyance would be caused to people accustomed to using lifts in tall buildings and so on, but no military advantage, in the slightest degree, would be obtained. This "military objective" excuse has long been worn out as far as Canton is concerned: it has been exposed for what it really is by the Japanese habit of sending up planes at night for the sole purpose of cruising round for hours. There can be one aim and one aim only in tactics of this kind—mass terrorism on a scale never previously attempted in any part of the world. For Mr. Butler to suggest otherwise merely creates suspicion that Lord Strabolgi's jibe that "the pro-Fascist section of the Cabinet is more friendly to Japan than to China" has a germ of truth behind it.

If the British Government want to know the truth about the Canton bombings, there are sufficient official observers in Canton to provide them with all that is necessary to arouse them to vigorous protest. After the Japanese raids as long ago as September last year the League of Nations solemnly condemned this indiscriminate bombing and the raids were for a time restricted. Surely the time has come (it was Hankow's turn yesterday) for another and more vigorous and purposeful international protest? The British Government for its own reputation's sake, as a leader in civilised behaviour, must consider the possibility of organising a new and stronger declaration by all democratic countries in the world, either through the League or independently. If possible the United States Government should be persuaded to give the weight of its great moral authority. Such a joint protest might not stop the Japanese bombing, but it should be tried. Furthermore, the British and other Governments should forget Japanese bluff threats and Japanese susceptibilities. It is long past time that vague assurances that promises and obligations are being kept in mind were translated into action to help China, either by supplying her with anti-aircraft guns and aeroplanes to defend Canton and other cities or by lending her the money to buy them. Russia is doing this: what has Britain to be afraid of? All members of the League are bound by an obligation to see what aid they can individually extend to China, and there is far less risk of war with Japan now than six months ago. Finally, the Japanese themselves should consider whether it is wise to persist in a course which so angers the peoples of the world that they may yet sweep away their timorous Governments and, no matter what the risk, join in preventive measures against Japan. The bombings of Canton and civilian centres in Hankow are a provocation to the civilised world. And Mr. Butler's calmness to those who know the facts.

Balloon Anniversary

One hundred and fifty-five years ago the brothers Montgolfier made their first successful experiment with a balloon, which rose to 6,000 feet and travelled one and a half miles. In view of the aerial anxieties of today it is hardly surprising to find that one of the first reactions to the flight was a war scare.

Britons at once suspected a sinister design behind the experiments, and a cartoonist expressed a widespread public fear in a popular caricature of the Montgolfiers, who were shown as blowing soap-bubbles and declaring, "Oh, my Gar, dis is de great invention. We will declare war against our enemy. We will make de English quake, by Gar! We will inspect their camp, we will intercept their fleet, we will set their dockyards on fire, we will take Gibraltar in de air balloon. And when we have conquered de English, den we will conquer de other countries and make dem colonies of de Grand Monarque."

ALL PARIS ACCLAIMS KING AND QUEEN

Colourful Scenes For Royal Procession

France Puts On Brightest Garb For Occasion

Boulogne, To-day.

Their Majesties entrained towards Paris at 1.10 p.m., standing at the window of their sumptuous drawingroom in the coach, waving and smiling at the cheering crowds.

The French Foreign Minister, M. Georges Bonnet, had left by a fast railcar five minutes previously in order to arrive in Paris in time to greet Their Majesties at the Quai D'Orsay.

Although the Royal train was not due to arrive in Paris much before 5.00 p.m., the crowds in the early morning were massing along the flower-embowered route from the Bois de Boulogne Station to the Quai D'Orsay. Loudspeakers on the Champs Elysees were entertaining them with operatic airs.

Although the day was not a public holiday, many offices and shops were closed during the afternoon, enabling the employees to obtain their early places along the route.

By 3.00 p.m., crowds that were estimated at sixty thousand had already gathered along the streets to witness the State Drive to the Elysee Palace and were cheering the mounted detachments of Spahis as they rode by in their red tunics, white cloaks and blue breeches.—Reuter.

SALUTE OF 101 GUNS

Paris, To-day.

Their Majesties arrived at the station at 4.50 p.m., as a salute of 101 guns was being fired from the Motvalerian Fortress. The station was decorated with impressive splendour and taste.

In the centre of the arrival platform, a space of 50 yards had been curtained off as a Dais of Honour, with crimson draperies sweeping from the roof. Two companies of Marines presented arms and the band played "God Save The King" and the "Marseillaise," as President Albert Lebrun stepped forward to greet the King with a handshake and Madame Lebrun welcomed the Queen.

The general presentation of the Cabinet Ministers and other notabilities followed, as well as of the engine-driver of the Royal train.

BANKS OF FLOWERS

The President then offered the Queen his arm and the King offered his to Madame Lebrun and the procession moved out to the 50 feet high reception hall specially erected outside the station, which was decorated with white, red and gold and hung with priceless tapestries and redolent with banks of flowers.

After further presentations, their Majesties descended to waiting motor cars. The Queen looked magnificent in a white, two-piece gown with sleeves edged with a border of silver fox.

The King and President Lebrun entered the first car, the Queen and Madame Lebrun with Vice-Admiral Devin stepping into the second. Nine other cars were necessary to accommodate the King's suite, accompanied by the leading French civil and military officials. The eighth car was reserved for the Canadian Minister and the South African and Eire Charge D'Affaires.

CRESCENDO OF CHEERING

The procession then started for the Quai D'Orsay, the leading car surrounded by cavalry. A crescendo of cheering rose as the cars moved slowly up Avenue Foch, heralded by a group of motorcycle police and a squadron of Moroccan Spahis and the Republican Guard. The dense crowd broke into vociferous cheering along the whole route, along which at intervals, thousands of doves—culled from all parts of the country—were released as a symbol of the character of the British and French interests. The procession arrived at the Quai D'Orsay at 5.20 p.m.

Upon their arrival at Quai D'Orsay, the King stepped from the car and shook hands with French Foreign Minister, M. Bonnet, who was waiting on the steps, and stood with President Lebrun while the Queen descended from the second car. Madame Bonnet was then presented to the Queen.

OFFICIAL CALLS

President Lebrun mounted the steps with the Queen holding his arm and the King and Madame Lebrun followed.

Members of the British Embassy Staff and their wives and the Dominion Representatives and their wives arrived at 5.30 p.m., and were presented to Their Majesties by the British Ambassador, Sir Eric Phipps.

Their Majesties left the Quai D'Orsay at 5.47 and drove in an open car to the Elysee Palace to return President Lebrun's official call and then returned to their Palace at 6.15 for a short rest and to change for the banquet at the Elysee Palace at 8.00 p.m.

As their Majesties arrived at the Elysee Palace at 8.00 p.m., the band of the Republican Guard played "God Save the King" and presented arms. The President and Madame Lebrun welcomed Their Majesties in the vestibule and then presented the Ladies of the Household and the guests, after which President Lebrun, The King and The Queen and Madame Lebrun lead the way to the dining hall.—Reuter.

ANOTHER JAPANESE SHOT ON BORDER

Hsinking, To-day.
Injecting new tension into the already strained Soviet-Japanese relations, a Japanese gendarme near Hullu, along the Eastern Frontier, was shot and wounded by Soviet frontier guards on Monday, according to Japanese reports.

The condition of the gendarme is not serious, but Manchukuo authorities have instructed the Foreign Affairs Commissioner at Harbin to file a strong protest.—Reuter.

the Avenue Foch to the Place de Lectile and the Arc de Triomphe and then down the Champs Elysees to the Place de la Concorde crossing the Seine to the Quai d'Orsay at that point.

Vast crowds had been waiting for many hours to see the sovereigns pass some 35,000 French troops lined the route from the railway station to the Quai d'Orsay. Loudspeakers had been set up at many places and the broadcast gave a vivid picture of the scenes along the route to those waiting for the procession to arrive.

IMMENSE CROWD

An immense crowd had gathered on the steps of the Madeleine Church from which looking down the Rue Royale, a clear view could be gained of the procession across the Place de la Concorde and over the bridge to the Palais Bourbon.

Thousands of school children dressed in white were drawn up in the Tuilleries gardens adjoining the

HANKOW EMERGENCY MEETING

Hankow, To-day.

Priests, missionaries, consuls and business men were among those who packed the Hankow Club yesterday afternoon for a meeting called by the Foreign Residents Association of all the persons who offered their voluntary services for duties in the ex-British Concession in the event of extreme urgency.

The object of the meeting was to discuss the details for assistance to the Council, should assistance be necessary, including the help of the police, fire brigade and sanitation departments.

It was emphasised that these services were to be purely municipal and there was no question of fighting or any such drastic steps.

The idea is to be tried in the ex-British Concession and probably will be extended later into the other districts.—Reuter.

Place de la Concorde. Along the route the crowds cheered and cried "Vive le Roi and vive l'Angleterre" and "Vive l'Entente Franco-Britannique."

From the top of the Eiffel tower, a Union Jack 85 metres long was waving. When the Royal couple reached the Quai d'Orsay itself the British flag was slowly hoisted to the masthead.—Trans-Ocean.

Hankow Air Raid Devastation

Hankow, To-day.

Yesterday's aerial bombardment was the most serious suffered by Hankow since the outbreak of the hostilities.

TRANS-OCEAN OBSERVED VARIOUS PHASES OF THE BOMBARDMENT FROM THE ROOF OF ONE OF THE HIGHEST BUILDINGS IN THE CENTRE OF THE CITY. THE FIRST SQUADRON OF RAIDERS, NINE PLANES, APPEARED OVER WUCHANG SHORTLY AFTER A NUMBER OF CHINESE PLANES HAD LANDED AT HANKOW AERODROME AND DROPPED 24 BOMBS.

Immediately afterwards, a second Japanese squadron which likewise numbered nine planes bombed Hanyang. A third squadron attacked the aerodrome dropping a larger number of bombs.

While the smoke resulting from the bombs dropped on Wuchang had vanished a few minutes after the bombardment, which appeared to indicate that the bombs had failed to do serious damage, dense columns of smoke rising at various points in Hanyang showed that the exploding bombs had set fire to a number of buildings.

The bombs dropped on the aerodrome started several conflagrations and one of them apparently registered a direct hit on one of the Chinese planes parked at the aerodrome. A tour through the city immediately after the raid was mere to ascertain the extent of the damage caused by the bombardment.

GREAT PANIC

The bombardment had obviously caused a great panic among the Chinese population since the Han River which separates Hankow from Hanyang was crowded with junks in which panic-stricken people were trying to flee down-river.

Five bombs had exploded directly in the centre of the overcrowded Hanyang quarter completely demolishing a large number of buildings. Although the exact number of victims is not yet known, it is estimated that in Hanyang alone at least 500 persons were killed. NO EFFECT

The material damage caused by the bombardment is comparatively insignificant, however, since the bombs failed to hit any military objective, although the aim of the raiders may have been the destruction of Chinese arsenal at Hanyang.

The bombs, if aimed at the arsenal, missed their target, falling into the Han River or on the buildings in the residential quarter. Two bombs hit and destroyed a number of junks in the Han River while other bombs struck the wooden huts inhabited by the poorest sections starting numerous conflagrations.

WUCHANG BRUNT

The largest number of bombs was dropped over Wuchang, however. The objective was Chinese headquarters near the Railway line at the boundary of the city. Since access to this part of the city is strictly forbidden, it is impossible to state with certainty the extent of the damage caused by the bombardment. It appears, however, that the headquarters buildings were not directly hit by the bombs.

Although the Chinese anti-aircraft batteries took the Japanese planes under fire when the latter passed over the centre of the town they failed to score any hits.

It is officially stated, however, that three Japanese planes were shot down outside the city.—Trans-Ocean.

Herr Hitler's A.D.C. Pays Special London Visit

Berlin, To-day.

Captain Wiedemann, Aide-de-Camp of Hitler has been visiting London and, it is disclosed, has talked with Lord Halifax.

This visit has officially been described as a private one, but it is believed here that Captain Wiedemann has emphasised the urgency of the Czech problem and declared that there must not be further delay in finding a solution to it.

It is known that Hitler is most dissatisfied with the lack of progress made between the Sudeten-Germans and the Czech Government.

It is felt that while Germany might accept a compromise with regard to the treatment of the Sudetens and acquiesce in a degree to the local autonomy, the Reich authorities are not prepared to tolerate the continuance of the Czech "connection with Russia," which is held responsible for the incidents on the Czech side of the border.—Reuter.

CZECH DENIALS

Prague, To-day.

Despite continued allegations in the German press that the Czech authorities are mobilising their frontier defences, the Czech Government has declared that everything is normal in the capital with traffic, postal and telephone communications not interfered with.

The Inner Cabinet met to-day and was presided over by President Benes, who only attends when important matters are discussed.

Sudeten German leaders deny that the final stage in the settlement of their grievances with the Czechs has been reached, as far as they are concerned.—Reuter.

GERMAN DENIAL

Berlin, To-day.

The Semi-Official German News Agency issued the following statement last night:—"Foreign press reports concerning the alleged political mission of Captain Wiedemann, of the German Army, in connection with the latter's purely private visit to London are emphatically denied by official quarters here. The denial refers particularly to the report which alleged that Captain Wiedemann submitted to Lord Halifax a proposal for a four-Power pact. This and similar reports regarding a letter by the Fuehrer which Capt. Wiedemann allegedly handed to Lord Halifax are characterised by official quarters here as pure inventions.—Trans-Ocean.

FORGED NOTE CASE SENTENCED REDUCED

A considerable reduction in the sentence passed on Chan Chum-shing, a refugee from Amoy, on Monday, on charges of possession and uttering of a forged $100.00 bank note, was made by Mr. Justice Lindsell at the Criminal Sessions this morning.

The sentence, two years' hard labour, was reduced to $250 with the alternative of six months' hard labour, on the charge of uttering, while on the charge of possession, prisoner was cautioned.

Addressing prisoner, His Lordship said: Since I sentenced you on Monday last to two years' hard labour, I have given your case very careful consideration. Accepting as I do the likelihood that your original possession of that $100 note was innocent, that your story of fleeing to Hong Kong from Amoy on account of bombing of your premises there is true, I have come to the conclusion that the sentence I passed on you was in the circumstances of the case too severe.

Your crime, though greater in degree, is no different in essence from that of a person who finds himself in possession of a bad 10-cent piece and get rid of it by putting it in a slot machine, and your deliberate ruse did not in fact injure anybody because it was detected.

Moreover, I have ascertained that at a recent Sessions, a woman, who was charged with possessing a forged $5 note and the circumstances made it clear that she was a member of a gang, the sentence was only the same as that I passed on you.

DELIBERATE PLAN

At the same time, you did think out a deliberate and wicked plan, which if it had succeeded would heavily victimise others, and there is no excuse whatever that because you have been victimised yourself you should try and recoup your losses by cheating others.

You deserve punishment not only as a lesson to yourself but also as a deterrent to other people who may find themselves in the same position.

In the circumstances of the case, I think justice would be done if I fine you $250 with the alternative of six months' hard labour on the charge of uttering, and discharge you with a caution on the count of possession.

THREE YEARS FOR ATTACK ON EX-MISTRESS

That a young Chinese, Lo Pak-kon, stabbed his 19-year-old concubine with a pair of scissors, inflicting 19 wounds about her head, body and arms, after he had failed to obtain money from her, was charged by Crown Counsel, Mr. W. J. Lockhart-Smith, at the Criminal Sessions this morning, before the Acting Puisne Judge, Mr. E. H. Williams.

The Crown alleged that accused met the girl in Fatshan two years ago and after a short acquaintance, they decided to live together as man and wife.

They parted later and the girl came to Hong Kong and secured employment as a waitress in one of the restaurants. Accused followed and continuously pestered her for money. The girl went as far as to pawn her mother's jewellery to give accused money.

UN LONG INCIDENT

She went to work in the Nam Yuen Restaurant in Un Long. Accused followed and pestered her constantly. She allowed him 60 cents daily. Once she gave him $5 and asked to go back to Canton.

The girl later went to work in the Man Fong Restaurant and on June 4 and 5, accused returned to Un Long and again pestered her for money.

On June 9, about 3 p.m. accused was eating in the Man Fong Restaurant. The girl passed his table after depositing a "tip" with the accountant, then he got up and asked her to pay his bill. When she refused, he held her down and repeatedly stabbed her with a pair of scissors.

He threatened the accountant. The manager intervened and was stabbed in the hand. The girl was taken to the Un Long Dispensary where she was given medical treatment. Accused was later handed over to a police officer.

In the witness-box, accused admitted that he had been living on the earnings of the girl and that he has a grudge against her for "blackening" his name in Canton. He stated that the girl stabbed him first with the scissors and that he retaliated because she called for the other people to assault him.

The jury, however, found accused guilty after a retirement of a few minutes.

Accused was sentenced to three years' hard labour.

PRIVILEGES RESOLUTION IN COMMONS

London, To-day.

The House of Commons last evening passed without a division the Liberal Amendment to the Labour Motion, re-committing the report of the Committee of Privileges of account of the subsequent disclosure of new information in connection with the Sandys case.

The Liberal Amendment was in the following terms: "The House, while reaffirming that the summons sent to the Honourable Member for Norwood was in the circumstances, a breach of the privilege of the House, instructs the Select Committee on the Official Secrets Act to inquire into and report on the circumstances in which the summons was issued."

The Select Committee met again yesterday and it is understood, so far as its original terms of reference went, the Committee has finished taking evidence. — British Wireless.

BABY'S SIMPLE AILMENTS CAN BE SHOOED AWAY

MOST babies get sick easily. They also get well quickly. That is, if you use the right medicine to "shoo" their ailments away.

Nurse Stoddard, of Massey, Ont., says: "I always use Baby's Own Tablets for colic, constipation, indigestion and feverishness. I find these tablets in every home, and have never known a mother to have used them either for infants or older children without satisfactory results."

They will, also, promptly "shoo" away colic, simple croup, diarrhoea, upset stomach, simple fever, constipation and other minor ailments of babyhood, and they expel worms.

Sweet-tasting. Easy to take. Prompt in action. Free from opiates and stupefying drugs. Absolutely harmless. Can be safely given to the most delicate baby. Get a package to-day. Sickens so often strikes in the night. Your chemists sell them.

"REVIEWER'S" SPORTS COMMENTARY

S. African Judge Praises Rugby Tourists

BEFORE leaving Cape Town recently for a holiday in England, Mr. Justice Percy T. Jones, president of the Western Province Rugby Union, highly praised the British touring team in an interview on the eve of his departure, and expressed regret he would not have further opportunity of seeing the tourists in action. He stated that in his opinion the British visitors are a very good side indeed, playing fast, lively Rugby, and adopting open, exhilarating tactics which make them a delight to watch.

"I thanked Major B. C. Hartley and each individual member of the team for opening up play and giving us what has been missing from our Rugby for some years—fast, open play, with an absence of the atrocious stabpunt which is frequently so useless.

"What I chiefly liked about this team as a whole was the intense backing-up. There was a marked intelligence in everything they did in this respect that was a revelation to us. When a British player is going for the line and finds his way barred, he does not pass simply for the sake of passing. He first of all makes sure that he is putting the ball where one of his own side can get it."

Commenting on the forwards, Judge Jones said the startling difference was that the Britons were so fast compared with the home players. He expressed the opinion that by the time the first Test is due to be played at Johannesburg on August 6, the British team will have welded into a really great side, provided they do not over-train and are unhampered by injuries. While he is on his prolonged leave, Judge Jones hopes to see the final cricket Test at the Oval and, provided he is not motoring on the Continent, intends to see the "Varsity match at Twickenham in December.

Well-Known Scottish Cricketer Passes

The death took place at Longniddry on July 6 of Mr. George W. Jupp, the Carlton and Somerset cricketer. Born in Somerset, he came to Edinburgh in 1894 and played until the war, and for a few years afterwards, for Carlton Cricket Club, where he established for himself a reputation as a powerful hitter and fine all-round player.

He represented Scotland against Ireland in 1909 and against the Australians in 1912. At that time few names were better known in Scottish cricket than that of G. W. Jupp. A few years ago he moved to Longniddry, where he took up golf with considerable success. His daughter, Miss Nancy Jupp, won the British Girls' Golf Championship in 1934—the youngest girl ever to win this title. Mr. Jupp was about 60 years of age.

George Jupp (writes a correspondent) was one of the most popular cricketers who ever played in Scotland, and one of the most successful with the bat and ball the Carlton Club ever had. He was a magnificent slip fielder. He captained the Club for several years, and was the leader in 1900, which was one of the most successful seasons the Club had. He and Dr. N. L. Stevenson, who was a close friend, made a great combination, and in the summer of 1900 Jupp scored 1500 runs, and Stevenson took 150 wickets. Again, in 1901, Jupp had the distinction of playing for his native county, Somerset, against both Lancashire and Yorkshire. He joined the Carlton Club in 1894, and from 1899 many centuries came from his bat. He was a prolific scorer, and his free hitting attracted many to the Carlton ground. From 1899 until 1910, with the exception of 1905, he headed the Carlton batting averages, and in 1910-11-12 he was the most successful bowler. George Jupp was a favorite not only with his teammates but with his opponents as well.

Bradman Reaches
2,000 Runs

A. L. HASSETT
BRILLIANT

London, To-day.

Thanks to another brilliant Bradman century, which carried this player's total for the season over the 2,000 mark, and a fine innings by diminutive A. L. Hassett, the Australians, dismissed for a comparatively low score by Notts in their first innings, eventually won by the large margin of 412 runs.

Bradman scored his 144 as the result of wonderful off-driving and hit one six and 17 fours in an innings which occupied him 179 minutes. In partnership with Hassett (124), he added 216 in 140 minutes for the second wicket.

Hassett drove brilliantly and scored with pretty shots on the leg. He hit one six and 15 fours in a chanceless display.

Set to score some 550 runs in the fourth innings of the match, Notts failed miserably against the wiles of Fleetwood-Smith and were all out for 137. Hardstaff was the only batsman to make anything like a stand and he was undefeated with 67.

Scores:

Australians—248 (D. G. Bradman 56; S. F. Barnes 58; C. B. Harris 4 for 60) and 453 for 4 dec. (Bradman 144, A. L. Hassett 124).

Notts—147 and 137 (J. Hardstaff 67 not out; Fleetwood-Smith 5 for 39).

UNLUCKY GIBB

Out Of Fourth Test

London, To-day.

P. A. Gibb, Cambridge and Yorkshire wicket-keeper batsman, has been adjudged unfit to play in the Fourth Test against Australia at Leeds on Friday and has been replaced by Price, of Middlesex.

Gibb has been particularly unfortunate. Given his chance in the Third Test owing to an injury to Ames, England's stumper, rain made it impossible for a single ball to be bowled.

He was injured last week in the Gentleman Players match at Lord's when he was struck by a fast ball from Edrich, but was provisionally selected for the Leeds match. —Reuter.

THE GREATEST WOMAN PLAYER

(By Air Mail)

London, July 4.

Typical of the many tributes paid to Mlle. Lenglen is this one by H. W. Austin:—"She was undoubtedly the greatest woman player and the most dazzling personality that has ever played the game of tennis. She was really in comparable. Mlle. Lenglen was a wonderful, vital personality."

Miss Betty Nuthall said to-day that her first recollection of Mlle. Lenglen was as a school-girl of 10 or 12, when she played with her at Lady Wavertree's garden party in Regent's Park. "I have never forgotten the meeting, because of her great personality. She was most understanding of my early mistakes, and I owe a great deal to her encouragement."

M. Guillou, president of the French Lawn Tennis Federation said:—"She was such a good comrade. We all loved her. Not only was her past so brilliant, but she had a great future before her, for her school was very valuable to French lawn tennis. Mlle. Lenglen was the greatest woman player who has ever lived."

German's Sensational Le Mans Protest

Le Mans.

A protest was officially lodged against two of the nine English cars entered for the Le Mans 24-hour Grand Prix, the most famous long-distance motor race in the world, in which English drivers and English cars have always played a conspicuous part.

The protest was made by the entrant of the two German cars in the race, on the ground that in neither case is the English car owned or driven by the same persons who owned or drove it last year. It is maintained that this is necessary under the rules if these cars are to be allowed to compete for the handicap prize known as the "Rudge-Whitworth Trophy."

The protest is unfortunate, because in each case there is good reason for the change of name. In one case the former owner, M. K. Bilney, was killed at Donington last autumn, and in the other Miss Dorothy Stanley Turner, who, with a friend, drove and qualified last year, is now ill in hospital in the South of France.

Such changes from one year to the other are frequent in this race, and the entries were accepted and approved by the promoting club.

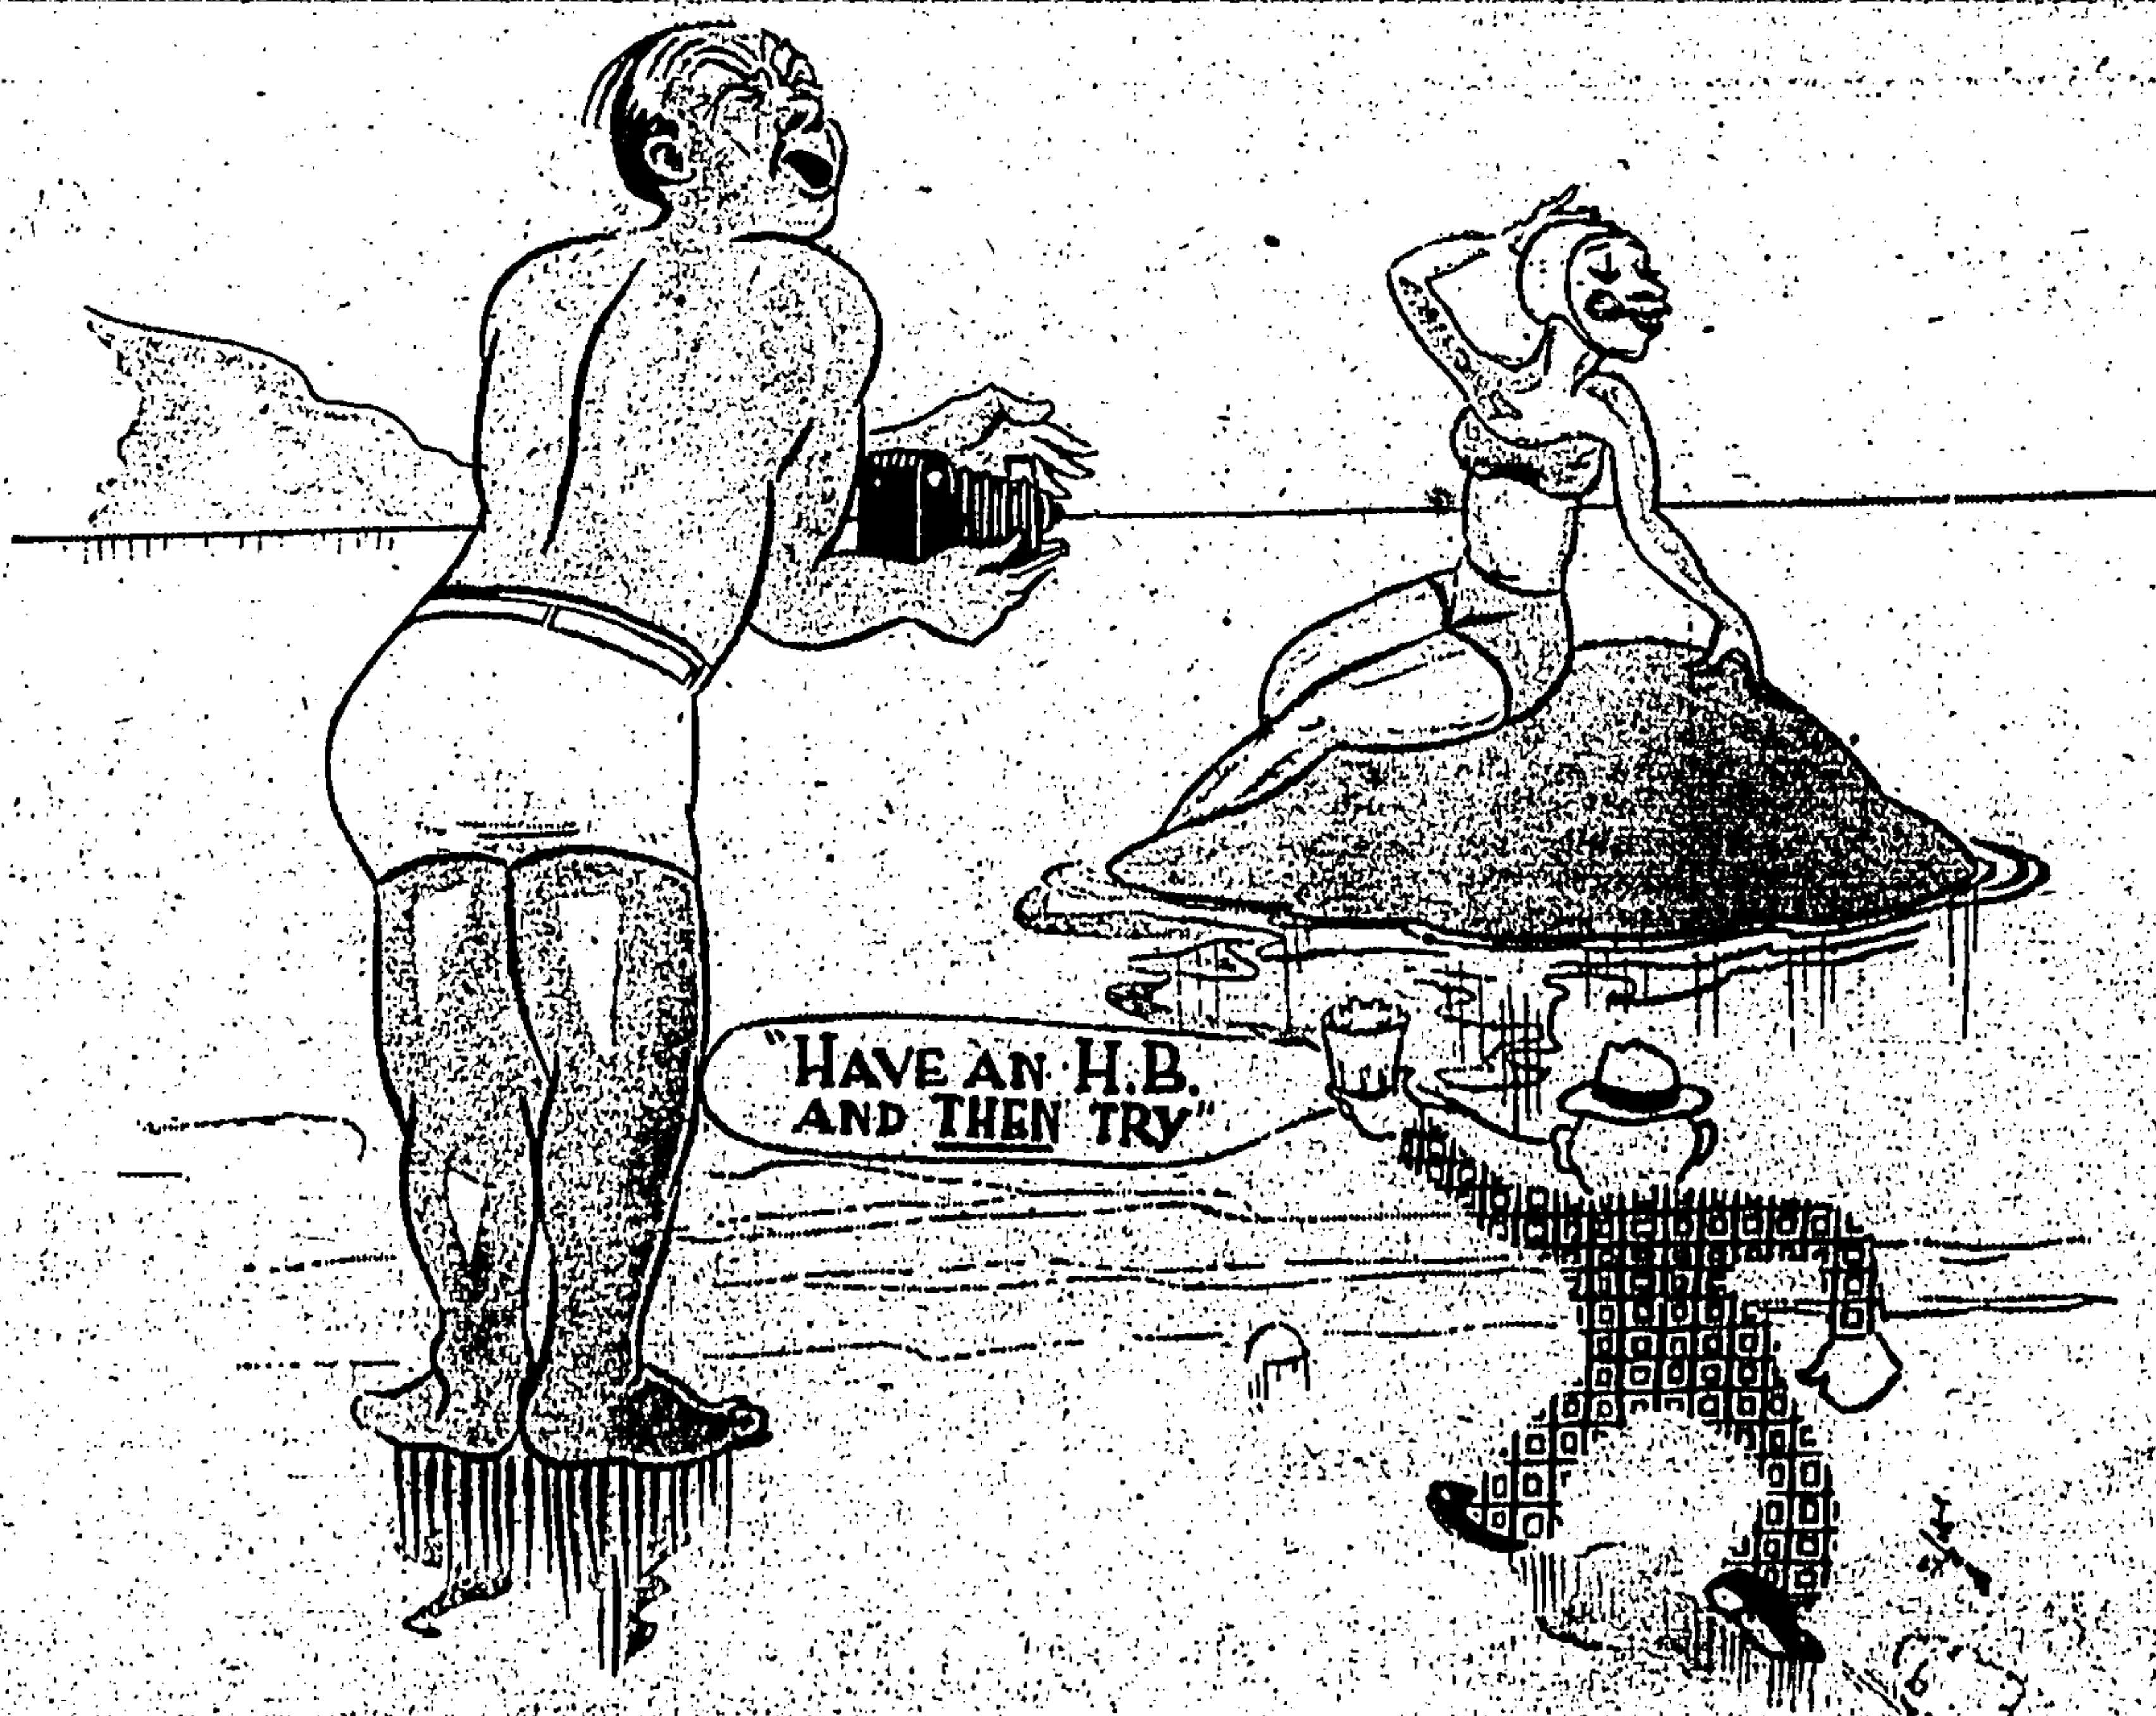

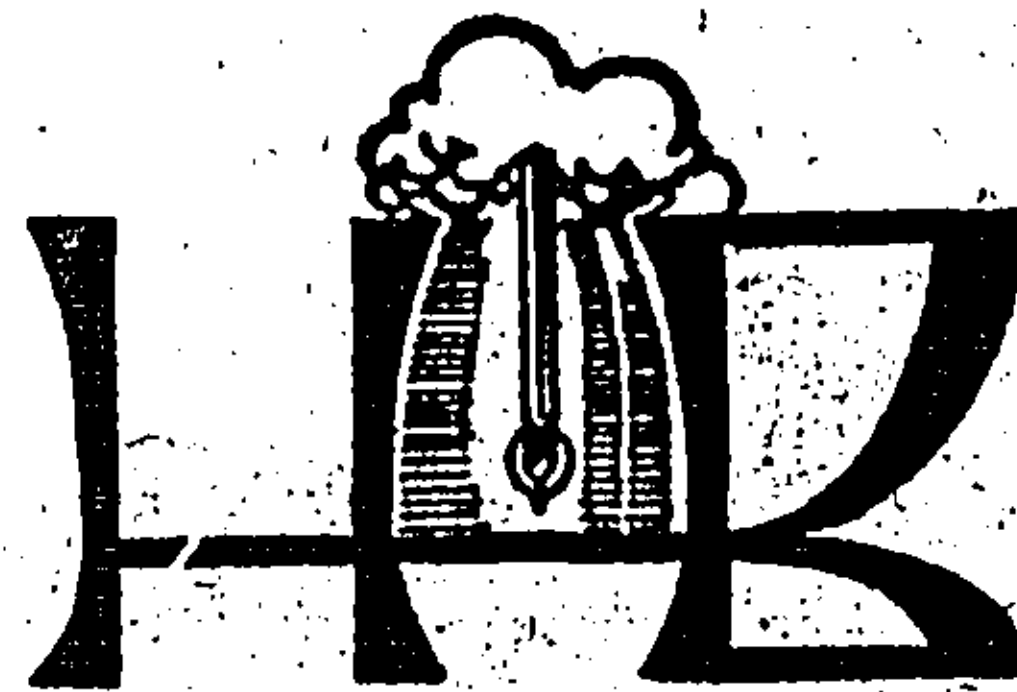

This year, for the first time since the four successive victories of the Bentley team established the prestige of the British sports car in Europe, not a single British manufacturer has entered or is supporting an entry.

SUNDERLAND SIGN FORWARD

Sunderland have secured the transfer of John Smeaton, an inside-forward from Blackburn Rovers. Joining the Rovers from St. Johnstone, the Scottish League club, two years ago, Smeaton played in 18 League games in his first season and 20 matches last year.

COTTON'S TITLE SLIPS FROM GRASP

BRUEN COLLAPSES SENSATIONALLY

British Open Golf Event Provides Thrills

BUSSON SETS THE PACE

(By AIR MAIL)

Sandwich, July 7.

ANOTHER day's figure striving in the amazing Open Golf Championship on the Royal St. George's Course still leaves the biggest possible guess at the half-way stage completed here to-night.

With thirty-six holes of the supreme test over, there are actually 15 competitors covered by five strokes, with the joint leadership in the hands of J. J. Busson, Pannal; W. J. Cox, Wimbledon Park, and R. Burton, Sale, who have the aggregates of 140, and are just one stroke ahead of Bert Gadd, West Cheshire, and James Adams, Hoylake.

What was called in yesterday's account the "jack-in-the-box" complexion still colours the Championship, though the leading "jacks" are all men of first rank reputation, while others who came to the top yesterday have lost something of their spring, and will in effect stay in their boxes.

Henry Cotton's title is slipping from his grasp, for his 73 to-day was nothing like nearly good enough among the low scores that again filed in, and in the end he scraped a last day chance by the narrow margin of two strokes. There are no fewer than two dozen players in front of the Champion to-night, and something on the lines of his phenomenal rounds of four years ago look like his only hope of making a real fight for it.

DUNCAN'S FEAT RECALLED

Seven strokes behind the leaders, however, creates no impossibility, when we remember the classic case of George Duncan, who made up 13 strokes on the final 36 holes at Deal eighteen years ago. Cotton will have to come from behind in both senses of the word to-morrow, for the draw send the majority of the leaders to the tee before him. Under the new regulation which puts all tiers for 40th place into the discard to-night there will be a contracted last day field of 37 players, and on the basis of last night's returns it looked as if the guillotine might have operated with greater severity.

The sensational absentee from the surviving company is James Bruen, the 18 years old Irish boy, whose golf collapsed dramatically to-day when he, in effect, offered his young head to the knife.

PERFECT WEATHER

After yesterday's mass leadership, which might have had the top of the score list scheduled as a congested area, there were many items on the agenda paper for to-day's attention. More spectators than we usually see at St. George's moved about the course, enjoying the open air and an abnormally open Championship, and it was a perfect day, with warm summer sunshine, blue sky, and a stiff breeze blowing in from the Channel. That wind must have a line to itself, for it materially changed the course, making the outward half much stiffer, the inward half, of course, easier. They were hitting out for the fourth, for example, with two woods, and the long fourteenth of 520 yards was a drive and a No. 4 before the day was out.

But to get back to the agenda. Popular fancy trailed large crowds in the wake of Cotton, anticipating a big recovery effort, with perhaps that putting wizardry of four years ago; and James Bruen, the boy wonder from County Cork, who, David-like, had thrust his youthful challenge under the noses of all the professional Goliaths yesterday. Cotton, however, again played without the needed inspiration, and the Goliaths in this story had a much better day than Bruen, whose collapse was indeed the sensation of the earlier stage.

BRUEN GOES UNDER

This marvellous youngster was still the darling of the crowds, and when he stepped on to the tee, his head shaded from the strong sun by a jauntily set pork-pie felt hat, there was no hint of the disastrous round on which he was about to embark. Right from the start he failed to connect. The brilliance of yesterday was gone, and though he hit a number of first-rate strokes, his game had become completely disorganised, and he was hardly recognisable as the boy whom we were discussing as actually a possible winner of the Championship 24 hours ago. In a round that its spectators could hardly believe, the worst he has played in competition this year, he ran up 80 strokes, ten higher than yesterday's brilliant effort, losing his touch on the greens, missing the greens with his seconds, and hitting his ball from one side of the fairway to the other at the finish.

BREAKS AGAINST HIM

Many older heads than his have slept badly on an overnight lead, and the tension may have got into his mind and play. Bruen said afterwards that he felt all right when he took the tee, but he got a little disheartened when he felt that the break seemed to be going against him. Three 5s were a bad start, and it was obvious from the side-lines that something had gone wrong with the works. He was definitely off his game, and glimpses, such as his 4 at the long Suez Canal hole, showed how much otherwise he was off. At that hole he showed all his remarkable power from the tee, and was home with a No. 4 iron for his second, but by that time he was as many as six over 4s, having taken 40 to the turn.

A DISASTROUS HOLE

The short eighth was a good example of how his control had left him. There he was bunkered, and exploded so hard out of the sand that he hit his ball not only over the green but over the heads of the spectators on the other side, and then took other three to get into the hole. The self-deliverance never looked like coming, for, after taking a 5 to the tenth, he had three putts on the thirteenth, zig-zagged his way to the seventeenth, and finally hooked a long drive to the eighteen. That last hole counted one of eight 5s on his card, which was destitute of 3s.

COTTON'S POOR START

Cotton had an equally inauspicious start, for he dropped three strokes in the first five holes, and mixed his golf, but there was more of the bad than the good that was needed to bring him right into the front of the picture. His 73 might have been some strokes higher, but he brought out the

MINIMUM PURSE MONEY

FOR BOXER

(By Air Mail)

The executive committee of the National Boxing Association have decided to increase the minimum purse money for boxers taking part in two-minute round contests. Some 2000 boxers who normally make up the supporting bouts at London and provincial tournaments are affected. Promoters are now asked to pay not less than £1 15s to the winner and £1 10s to the loser of eight-round contest; and not less than £3 10s to the winner and £3 to the loser of ten-round contests.

At present it is the general practice to pay the same purse money to the loser and winner of supporting bouts. The N.B.A. believe that a distinction should be made in favour of winning boxers. Minimum payment for six round boxers was recently raised by the Association to £1 5s for the winner and £1 for the loser. This was endorsed by the Southern Area Council of the B.B.B. of C., and the stewards of the board are being urged to make the increase compulsory throughout country.

stroke here and there. A short missed putt at the third was a jolt. He failed to get up in two from a cuppy lie at the next, and then proceeded to take three putts at the fifth, so that his start was 5 4 4 5 5.

Hardly good enough was the general verdict, "unless..." but the retrieving effort was not there. A three yards putt sent truly to the hole at the ninth was a saver after a bunker stroke, and all the way in he fought hard and well enough for his figures, for after a 5 at the fifteenth he laid a long putt dead at the sixteenth, a niblick pitch against the stick at the seventeenth, and then got par again after being bunkered at the eighteenth. That was the spell that kept him in the Championship.

BUSSON SETS THE PACE

Busson, the 27-years-old Yorkshire golfer, who swings the club as rhythmically as Bobby Jones, jumped into the leadership about lunch-time, when he held out in 69 for his aggregate of 140. Here was a rattling good pace, set with a 32 for the first nine holes despite the fact that he arrived at the course this morning with a painful and bandaged left knee. This obviously proved no disability, though he felt it now and again when he swung, but there are thousands of golfers who would be any sort of casualty you might care to name if they could go round St. George's in the Open and break 70. Busson might have even been better had the ball just toppled from some of his putts. Five or six times on that brilliant enough outward half it looked as if it might, and what the half total would have been, well, imagination is rather staggered by the thought.

As it was, he missed a quite possible putt for 31 to the turn, and stepping up to all his strokes and dispatching them with a copybook style and assurance, he seemed set for something special.

ATROCIOUS LIE

The one break came at the long fourteenth, where he confessed to me afterwards the thought flashed into his mind "I must on no account drive out of bounds here," and, aiming too far to the left, he then put his second on the other side of the course, where he had to bomb the ball out of an atrocious lie with a blaster. That hole put a 6 on his card, but he nevertheless picked up his good-going story again, and tapped down a stiff putt at the eighteenth for the following card: — Out, 4 4 3 4 4 3 4 2 4 — 32; in — 4 4 4 4 6 4 3 4 4 — 37.

EX-RYDER CUP LEADERS

Two other former Ryder Cup men joined Busson in his distinction at the top. Burton, one of the longest hitters in the Championship, doing a 69, and Cox turning in a 70. Burton's power told heavily at the longer holes, and after failing to get quite up at the first with his brassie, and also taking a 5 at the fourth, where he was in the rough off the tee, he settled down to a magnificent exhibition of golf which, but for one or two slipped putts, would have counted better.

There was just one anxious moment at the last hole, where he knocked his drive no more than 100 yards. But with a super brassie stroke he hit the ball an enormous distance just short of the green, chipped up dead, and got his 4, a great battling finish the like of which might turn the whole Championship to-morrow.

Cox played the steadiest of golf, and five times putts of four yards, or thereabouts just failed to drop for him. Gadd, who was just beaten by Alliss in the recent professional match play tournament at Sandy Lodge, also went round in 70, while Reg. Whitcombe did another 71.

SUPERB PERFORMANCE

James Adams was one of the 71 compilers towards the end of the day, and a superb fighting performance it was, considering that he was in five bunkers in four holes. His putting is at its best this week, and that may prove to be his luck in this championship. No putt beat him, and among some good ones was one of eight yards at the seventh. Adams has the luck of the draw for to-morrow, for he is drawn to strike first off the tee.

Bobby Locke, who had a brilliant 72 to-day, although he missed two putts in the first half-hour that measured under four feet between them—they were at the fourth and fifth holes—Syd Brews, who had a magnificent recovery from his yesterday's 76 with a 70, including an electric spurt from the short eighth which gave him five successive 3s with wonderful pitching and putting, and Marcel Dallemagne, the French Open champion, are the only overseas competitors left in.

FOUR SURVIVING AMATEURS

Cyril Tolley is the best of four surviving amateurs and deserves to be, for he had a wonderful round in his grasp to-day, when he was actually six under 4s with two holes to play.

Tolley never hit the ball with greater ease, and just when a grand chance was beginning to slip he holed a five yards putt for a 2 at the sixteenth. Then came the startling anti-climax for he topped his drive to the seventeenth, and then, after too much palaver and time lying on his hands and knees, he missed a two-foot putt at the eighteenth. Even so, he was round in 68.

Hector Thompson was himself again this morning with a grand 71, including three putts twice on the way out, and Jack McLean played sterling golf in a 74, after starting 5 5 3 6.

The weather may hold the key to this championship, for, as I am typing, the Press tent is being battered by torrential rain, and lightning is playing frequently in one of the severest thunderstorms I can remember.

Noted Tennis Pros. At Glasgow

The first of three days of exhibition professional lawn tennis matches at the Ibrox Stadium, Glasgow, in which W. T. Tilden, America; Hans Nusslein, Germany, the Professional Champion of the World; R. Ramillon and Martin Plaa, France, are engaged, attracted a crowd of about 4000 on July 8.

The matches were played on a wooden court laid down in front of the grand stand, and some brilliant tennis was seen.

Against Plaa, Tilden, although now much slower, revealed all his old cleverness, but it was only after three sets that he got the better of the Frenchman. In the first set, Plaa produced many clever shots, keeping a fine length with his driving, and repeatedly passing Tilden when he came up to the net. It was game about to "5-all" when Plaa, although "aced" by Tilden, took the game against service, and then followed with his own service to take the set at 7-5. Plaa seemed well set for the second set, too, when he led 3-1, but in the next game Tilden's cannon-ball service worked effectively, and he "aced" the Frenchman four times. Plaa, however, profiting by mistakes on the part of Tilden, went to a 5-3 lead, but from that point Tilden played some brilliant tennis, and took four games in a row for the set. There were many stirring rallies in the deciding set. Plaa took the fourth game on his own service to love, but Tilden returned the compliment next game, and from that point he dominated the play, to win 6-3.

ACCURATE PLACING

The other singles match between Nusslein and Ramillon also went to three sets. The German impressed the crowd by the accuracy of his placing, while the Frenchman excelled with his forceful driving. Ramillon made full use of the court, and his variety of shots kept the forceful German away from the net. After 3-all in the first set, Ramillon was on top, and a great back-hand shot in the tenth game won him the set. In the second set Nusslein kept up a steady attack, and a beautifully-played drop shot won him many points. His service also was very effective, and the Frenchman, who won only one game, was repeatedly "aced."

In the final set, the best tennis of the night was seen, both men being repeatedly applauded by the crowd. In the eighth game, Nusslein played a wonderful back-hand, cross-court drive, which finished off a great rally, but it did not save the game, and Ramillon, winning the next game, picked up from 3-5 to 5-all. After "7-all," Nusslein, by brilliant volleying, took the next two games for victory.

In the doubles match, Plaa and Nusslein defeated Tilden and Ramillon in two sets. It was a match of quick action, but the better placing and volleying of Nusslein and his partner gave them victory.

Scores:—

SINGLES

W. T. Tilden beat Martin Plaa, 5-7, 7-5, 6-3.

Hans Nusslein beat R. Ramillon, 4-6, 6-1, 9-7.

DOUBLES

Nusslein and Plaa beat Tilden and Ramillon, 6-1, 7-5.

Mark Seymour's Fifth Victory

There was a dramatic finish to the championship of Glasgow and District Professional Golfers' Association, played over both courses at Dunoon, when Mark Seymour, Edinburgh, sank a six-yard putt on the last green to win for the fifth time.

The forenoon round was played over the municipal course, where the leaders, Orr and MacQueen, returned par scores of 68.

In the afternoon, over Cowal course, Orr played from out of bounds at the third hole and was disqualified. The hole is a dog-leg, and he took the short cut. It proved most unfortunate, as he had the best total. Seymour's round on Cowal course was one below par.

Cannot Say When He Will Return

(By HAROLD LEWIS)

London, June 16.

Tommy Farr is on his way back to the United States. It was exactly a year since he fought and defeated Walter Neusel in London, leaving shortly afterwards for New York. He has not since fought in England, although he came back to fight, some months ago, equipped with manager and sparring partners.

Efforts have been made to match him with various opponents without success. Eventually it was hoped that he would stay to meet the official challenger for the British heavyweight title, the winner of the Ben Foord-Eddie Phillips fight, which takes place next Tuesday at Harringay.

Farr won the title from Foord in March last year, and has not been called upon since then to defend it. Doubtless the British Boxing Board of Control will fix a time-limit after next Tuesday's fight.

"My two visits home," said Farr yesterday, as he was leaving London, "have cost me £6,000 and a great deal of worry from various directions. I cannot say when I shall come home again. It all depends what fights are offered, here and in America."

'SPURS SIGN ENGLAND'S FULL BACK

MAY GET BRYN JONES

London, June 16.

Tottenham Hotspur last night obtained the transfer of Sproston, the English international right-back, from Leeds United. Sproston played for England in every representative match last season.

The fee is understood to be £8,000 and is a record for the club.

The 'Spurs were also in negotiation yesterday for the transfer of Bryn Jones, Wolverhampton Wanderers' famous Welsh international forward, for whom £12,000 was stated to have been turned down last season.

Jones, who was in Wolverhampton last night, said that nothing would be settled until this morning, when he is to meet the 'Spurs' representatives at Molineux Grounds.

Chelsea have signed W. J. Van Der Berg, the Bokaburg and Eastern Transvaal goalkeeper, who will sail for England shortly to get ready to play in London during the coming season.

MIDDLESBROUGH PROFIT

£8,191

Middlesbrough F. C. last season made a profit of £8,191. The gate receipts, amounting to £36,496, were a record in the history of the club.

Hull City made a profit of £2,108, compared with a loss of £754 on the previous season. Gate receipts totalled £16,895, an increase of £6,934.

ASTON VILLA'S £11,672 PROFIT

Aston Villa F. C. made a profit last season of £11,672. Gate receipts increased from £61,790 to £87,653, but expenditure was larger. The available balance will be £10,734, and the directors recommend a 5 per cent. dividend, not only for this year, but for the two previous years in which dividends were not paid.

The Bidding:

North	East	South	West
1♠	Pass	2♠	Pass
2♠	Pass	3NT	Pass
3NT	Pass	5♠	Pass
Pass	Pass	Pass	Pass

The King of hearts was opened. Declarer won with his own Ace, cashed dummy's Ace and King of spades, discarding his losing heart, and conceded a trick to the Ace of diamonds, thereby making a Small Slam which any two players should surely have bid.

In the analysis South was quite properly blamed for failing to reach the Slam. In the first place his second-round bid of two notrump was very poor, his reason for it being that if his partner had a shaded opening bid, he did not want to direct a heart lead against a notrump contract by bidding clubs. However, even after his partner's three-diamond bid South could have saved the situation. First, he might have jumped immediately to six diamonds, a bid which really could not be criticised. Or, if he really wished to invite a Slam, he might have shown his heart and club controls, whereupon North, with his fine fit for diamonds, might have taken some action.

Actually South was a victim of what we call a fixed idea. He decided arbitrarily that his partner had opened a semi-psychic, and really abandoned all hope of a slam from the outset. Incidentally, although you may know that your partner occasionally indulges in psychics, to decide arbitrarily that his opening bid was unsound and proceed on that basis will nearly always cause a bad result.

AT THE ORIENTAL—"Arsene Lupin Returns", with Melvyn Douglas, Virginia Bruce and Warren William. A mystery within a mystery in which a crook chases a killer to prove his innocence provides the basis of this thrilling, adventure, drama.

AT THE MAJESTIC—"The Plainsman", with Gary Cooper and Jean Arthur. An old favourite, the grandest of all de Mille's great romances. Well worth seeing again.

AT THE STAR—"Wings Of The Morning"—Beautiful British technical picture, starring Annabelle, supported by Henry Fonda, Leslie Banks and John McCormack.

Remarkable New Microscope For Medical Research

Berlin, To-day.

After six years of arduous and unremitting research, two German scientists, Doctor Ernst Ruska and Doctor B. von Borries, working at the laboratory for Electronic Optics of Siemens und Halske A.G., Berlin, and the University Medical Clinic of Charite, Berlin, have succeeded in perfecting an instrument known as an ultra-ultra or electronic microscope which by enabling linear magnifications of 30,000 to be reached by comparison with maximum of only 2,000 attainable with the most refined optical microscopes known to modern science, will enable medical and physical science to explore worlds of infinite minuteness hitherto lying far beyond the range of human investigation.

Scientifically expressed, this hitherto impenetrable region is that in size between the smallest wave length of light and the dimensions of molecular.

The greatness of this achievement is readily understood when it is considered that while 250 years of effort were needed to perfect the optical microscope and attain maximum linear magnification of 2,000, only six years were needed to reach linear magnification of 30,000 with the electronic microscope.

MEDICAL RESEARCH

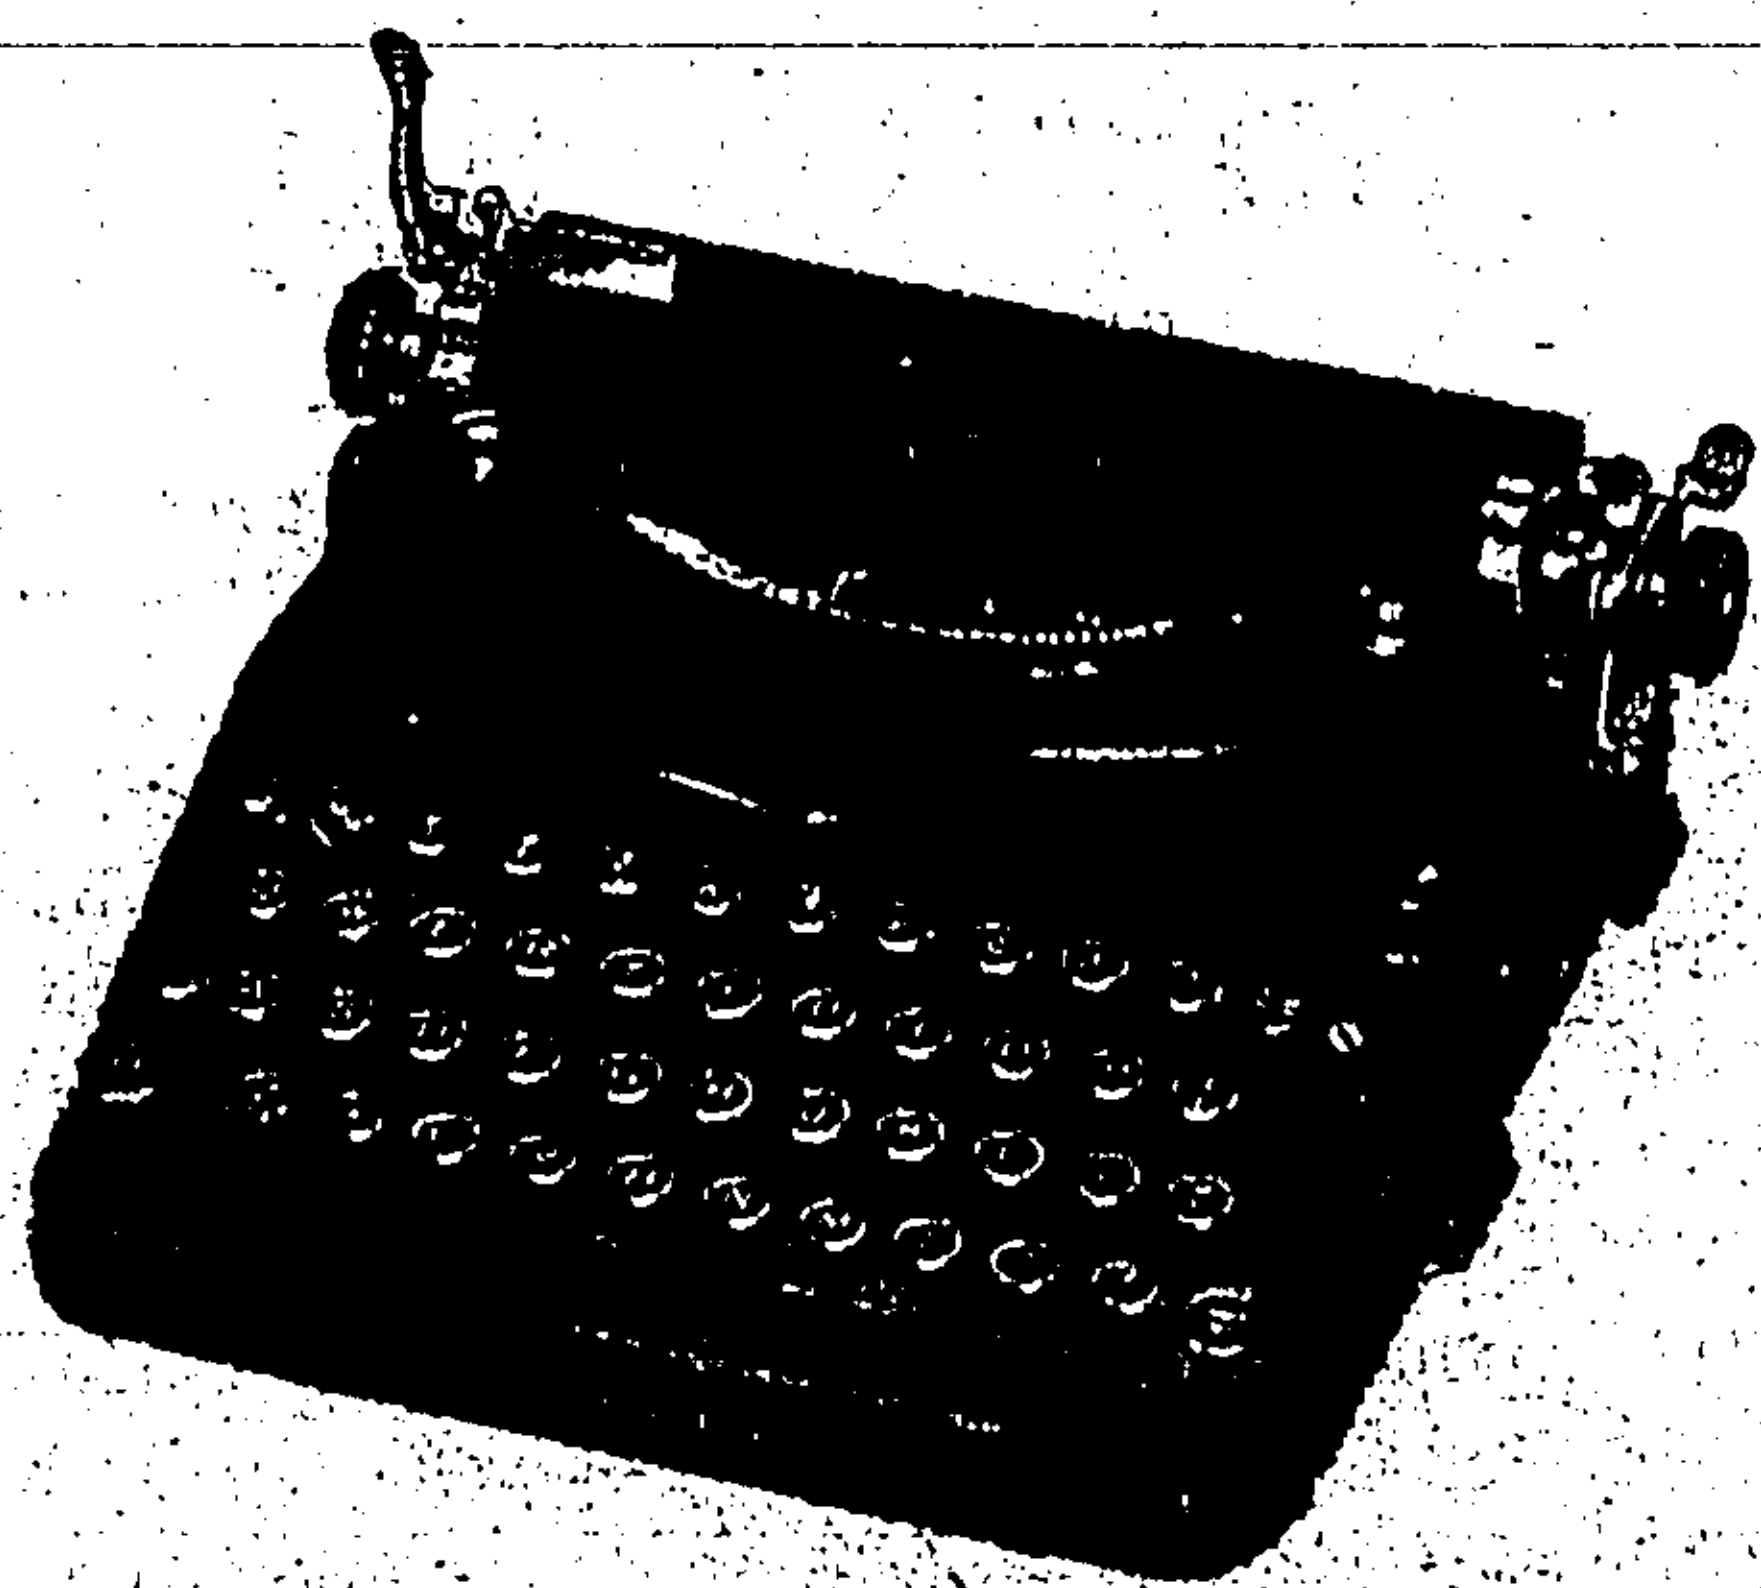

The value of the accomplishment will, at first, be chiefly in medical research which, for decades, has been baffled by the inability to discover, identify and isolate bacteria causing certain epidemics and deadly diseases, among which are measles, influenza and infantile paralysis.

Finally it was proved that, as always supposed, these diseases actually were caused by bacteria which, however, were too small to be seen with magnifications up to 2,000. The electronic microscope, however, will not only reveal these ultra-bacteria to the eye but will bring within the range of vision all the details of cell life including structural nature of the cell nuclei and chromosomes, thus enabling

WARNING

Again we sincerely warn the public against buying cheap sunglasses sold on non-optical or unqualified counters. The lenses should be perfectly plain but mass-produced goggles seldom are. Bumps, streaks and bad moulding affect the eye as seriously as a wrong prescription. Our cheapest GUARANTEEABLE Sunglasses (in attractive, fitted frame and leather case) are being sold extensively at $5.00 per pair.

RADIO LICENCE CASES

Three Kowloon residents were summoned before Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen this morning for failing to notify change of address or for having possession of wireless-sets without licences.

Mr. L. G. Alves, of No. 9, Granville Road, was fined $10 for the former offence.

Messrs. Chan Fan, of No. 5, Fook Wing Street, and Lau Kwok-yin, of No. 21, Wong Chuk Street, were fined $75 and $40 for having no licences.

the laws of heredity to be studied more closely while colloidal chemistry will now yield up many of its most puzzling secrets.

DYSENTERY BACILLUS

Already the inventors have succeeded in obtaining a magnification of the hitherto invisible dysentery bacillus, 4 to 5 cms long, whereby it was discovered that this bacillus is of two kinds, one virulent, one almost harmless.

What the electronic microscope might ultimately prove in the hands of modern scientists is still unpredictable but there is no exaggeration in asserting that it will open up an entirely new era in all sciences working in realm of the microscopic, for instance, atomic chemistry and physics of the ultimate structure of matter.

The principle by which these epoch-making results achieved is the use of cathode rays in place of the light rays with the optical microscope.

IN A VACUUM

But whereas with the latter magnification, produced by the use of glass or fluorite lenses, to deviate the rays of light, in the electronic microscope the cathode rays are deviated by the use of electromagnetic collars the whole being in a vacuum. As in dealing with objects of such infinite smallness, adjustments of the instrument must be almost incredibly exact, the new tool of science from the mere point of view of instrument-making is a triumph of technical achievement.—Trans-Ocean.

A fine of $100 was imposed on the manager of the To Keung Factory, of No. 121, Woosung Street, by Mr. Q. A. A. Macfadyen for not registering the factory.
